A black and white photograph of a sunset or sunrise over a body of water. The sun is a bright, glowing orb on the horizon, its light reflecting on the water's surface. In the foreground, several tall, thin stalks of grass or reeds are silhouetted against the bright sky and water, creating a sense of depth and texture. The overall mood is contemplative and serene.

The simple way
A flower grows
The leaf, the bud,
And then the rose

The easy way
A friendship starts
A word, a smile,
A touch of hearts

No lovelier gifts
Could life send
Then a beautiful rose
Or a special friend.

Dedication

Mary Lou Jadwin Principal

We the class of nineteen-seventy eight, are proud to dedicate our yearbook to a person who in the two years we have been here has backed us up and stood behind us one-hundred percent.

She is a very understanding and a sincere woman. She makes us proud to say we graduated from North Shore Regional Vocational School.

We the class of 1978 being the first full graduating class from this school, would like to extend our sincere graditude and appreciation to our principal, Mrs. Jadwin. Without her help and support we could not have come this far and achieved our goals.

We would like to dedicate this book to you, Mrs. Jadwin, with our deepest thanks.

Miss Foster has always been warm, friendly, and full of personality. Her cheerfulness and optimism has won her many friends; few will forget her.

As our yearbook advisor for this year, Miss Foster, has done a tremendous job pulling us together. She has made many sacrifices in order to make our yearbook even better than last year's. Without her, who knows where we would be.

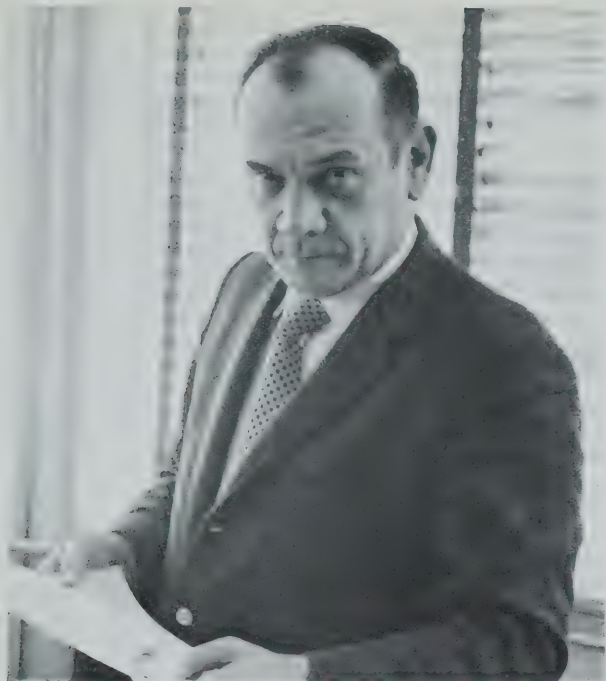

For these reasons and many more, we would all like to say, "Thank You, Miss Foster."

Administration

May I congratulate you on your demonstrated success in your chosen field.

Your intensity in pursuing the mastery of vocational skills and knowledge will now begin to pay dividends. Through hard work and diligent study you have become mature professionals. You have also grown as citizens, aware of both the rights of others and your own responsibilities. Hopefully, you will be able to pass along these qualities to others, particularly those not fortunate enough to have attended a vocational school.

It has been a delight to observe your progress over the past years. If we at North Shore can help you in the future, please contact us. I deem it an honor to be counted among your friends.

Congratulations to you, the class of 1978! You have joined the ranks; you have earned membership into the very special group of past and future graduates of the North Shore Regional Vocational School.

Your present success is evident; your future success is, of course, dependent upon YOUR determination, YOUR initiative, and YOUR desire to develop to the fullest extent those talents and skills you have learned under the direction and supervision of your instructors.

Remember that learning never stops. Whether education be of informal or formal nature, it is perhaps the most important and influential commodity in your life-----seek and use every opportunity presented to you.

Wishing each of you the very best.

Then said a teacher, "Speak to us of teaching." And he said:

No man can reveal to you aught but that which already lies half asleep in the dawning of your knowledge.

The teacher who walks in the shadows of the temple, among his followers, gives not of his wisdom but rather of his faith and his lovingness.

If he is indeed wise he does not bid you enter the house of his wisdom, but rather leads you to the threshold of your own mind.

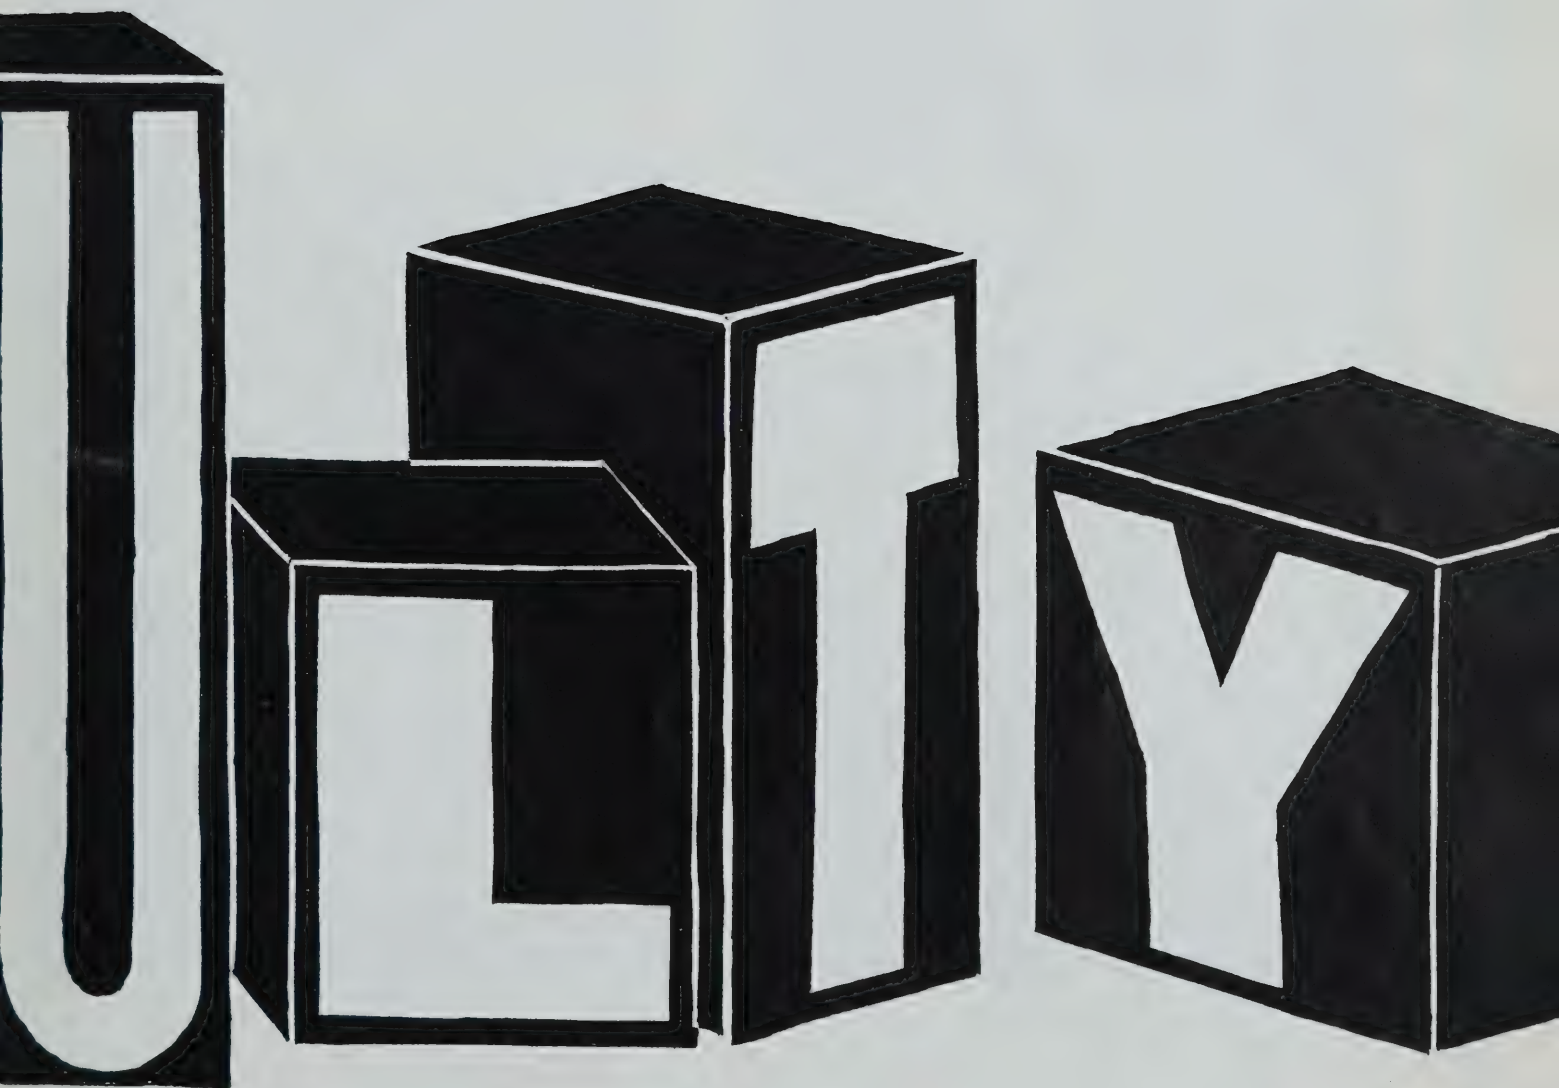

The astronomer may speak to you of his understanding of space, but he cannot give you his understanding.

The musician may sing to you of the rhythm which is in all space, but he cannot give you the ear which arrests the rhythm nor the voice that echoes it.

And he who is versed in the science of numbers can tell of the regions of weight and measure, but he cannot conduct you thither.

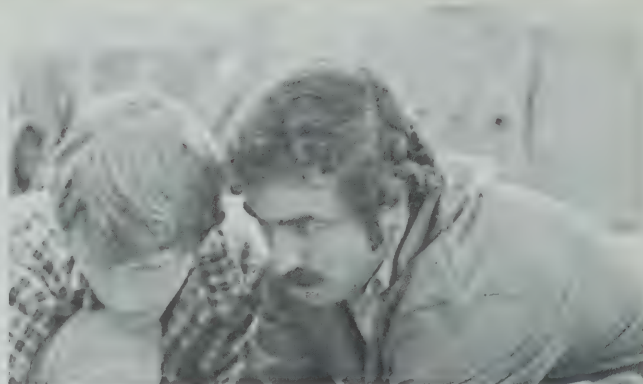

For the vision of one man lends not its wings to another man."

“Teachers???
What Teachers!??”

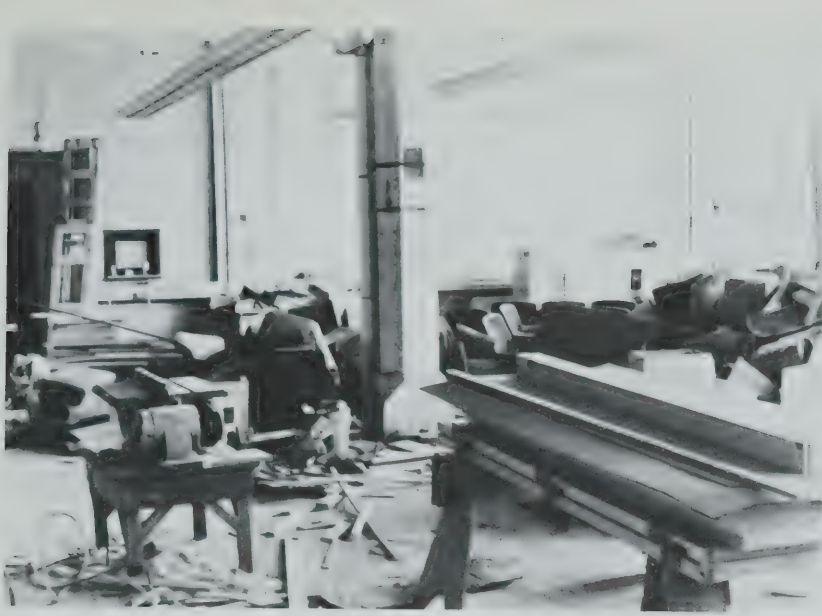

CLASS HISTORY

It was Sept. 8, 1976 and students from 15 surrounding communities were meeting for the first time at North Shore Regional Vocational School. By 8:00 a.m. hundreds of students were piling into the school from buses or their cars. As we came thru the doors it was clear that our amusement at the condition of the school was mutual. It was pure chaos. Eyes searched for familiar faces and smiles were apparent when they succeeded. Once we were in the school, we were directed to shops and classes by signs, faculty, and the administration.

The first impression we got was a mixed up one. The building, we agreed wasn't in the best of shape. There weren't any chalkboards, books, or door-knobs; there were broken windows, and pipes hanging from ceilings. Halls needed work, as well as many rooms. But the upcoming year brought many changes.

As everyone settled down in classrooms and started to meet new kids, the teachers explained many things about the school. There was an assembly held by the principal, Mrs. Jadwin, in the auditorium. She introduced us to all the teachers and administration. These, we were told, were the people who we would come to know well over the years.

Lunch was enjoyed by everyone, even though it was served in a brown paper bag. It was still appreciated. Noontime came with everyone in their academic classes. New things were told to the students about what was required of them and what was to be taught over the year. Well the first day finally came to an end, and everyone had met at least a couple dozen new people who would become their close friends. The students boarded onto their buses and returned back home.

Some thought their new school was great, while others went back to their hometown school.

The year progressed with the building taking the appearance of an almost new school. There were chalkboards, books, windows, lights, doors, and doorknobs and best of all hot lunches.

Every shop helped by repairing the walls, and also by painting halls, floors, and classrooms; while others tried in their own way to help the school progress.

The building turned out to look like a brand new school with all the professional touches.

The seasons passed with summer coming. Books were starting to be packed away. Classrooms and especially shops were cleaned up. Exams were taken and finally school ended.

Goodbyes were said knowing we would be back in the fall.

Summer came and went and Sept. 8, 1977 came and school started again. Now we were "SENIORS" and this would be the last time. We all hoped this year would bring many more adventures to remember.

After the first day it seemed like we had never left school. Everyone seemed glad to be back. This year it was easy to get in the swing of things.

Academics were different; for most of us, the classes seemed harder. Shops were more difficult because it was our second year. Some students were lucky enough to get on work study, while others looked for jobs.

When this year, our senior year, ends, we will have had the pleasure of meeting more people, learning about the responsibilities of life as a working person, and being able to become professionals in our chosen field. We have been lucky to be able to attend a vocational school to help us in our futures. It was an education we will never forget.

What is a friend? I'll tell you. It is a person with whom you dare to be yourself. Your soul can go naked with him. He seems to ask you to put on nothing, only to be what you really are. When you are with him, you do not have to be on your guard. You can say what you think, so long as it is genuinely you.

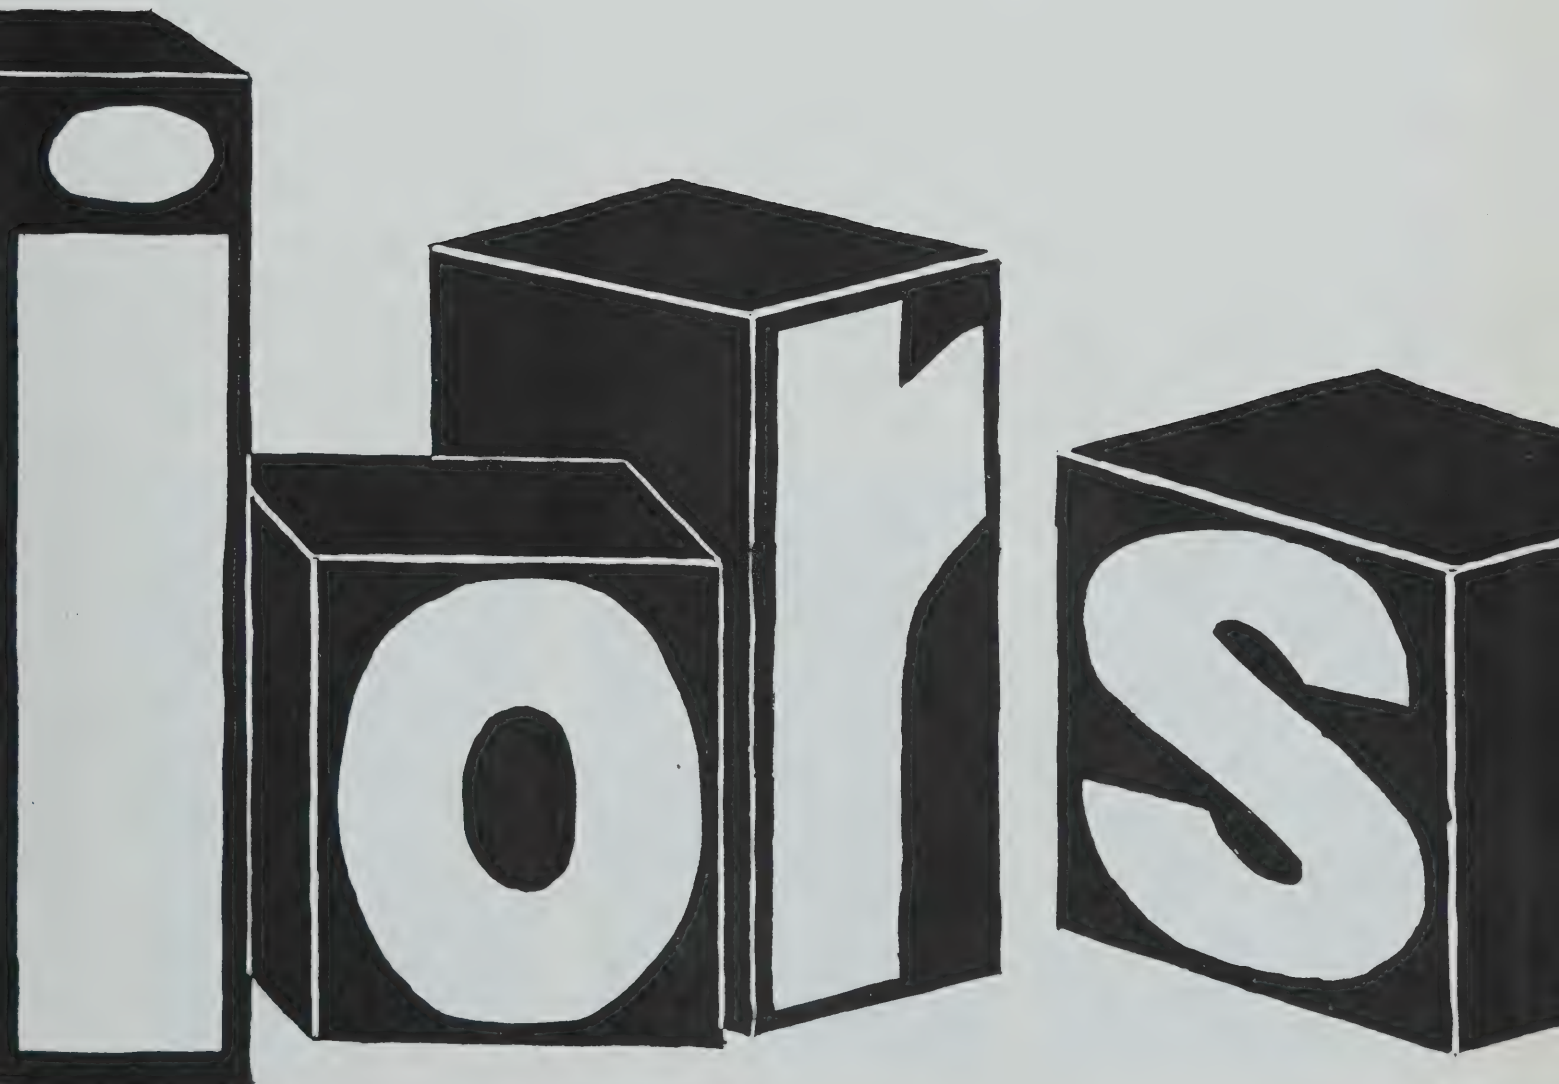

He understands those contradictions in your nature that cause others to misjudge you.

With him, you breathe freely, you can allow your little vanities and envies and absurdities and in opening them up to him they are dissolved on the white ocean of his loyalty.

He understands, you can weep with him, laugh with him, pray with him, and through and underneath it all he sees, knows, and loves you.

A friend, I repeat, is one with whom you dare to be yourself.

The time has come and our goodbyes are in order.
Stop for a moment And take a last look around you. Even though we will look back down the road of memories, we shall now walk down the road to our future.

For our future is important because we will have to spend the rest of our lives there. You never really leave a place you love . . . You take part of it with you, leaving a part of it behind you.

Robin Sheppard

the staff

A lot of people might not realize it, but putting out a school's yearbook isn't easy. Noone had done it before, no-one was sure they even wanted too, and none of us had much confidence despite Ms. Foster's first encouraging statement, "What's a layout?"

Our first problem came with what was going in the book and because of those silly deadlines, the problem almost decided itself, with nothing!

Our next problem was with the selection of a cover. 15 people can't all love a cover and as we came to find out, 15 people usually don't all hate one either. Hence we wasted one week on the pros and cons of every cover. Unfortunately I can still hear Ms. Foster, "Now what about this one?"

Another problem that comes with a yearbook, is trying to convince every senior that his portrait should go into the yearbook. We convinced a lot of people, but to those we didn't, we are sorry that you were left out of the fun. And if any of you who didn't get in, dislike some of our yearbook our only excuse is that it is hard to represent someone who likes to pretend they don't exist.

Lisa almost lost faith when all the people assigned to do layouts asked in chorus, "What are those funny red marks all over the pictures?" But thanks to plenty of explanations and diagrams in our layout handbook, and the hard work put in by the layout people, we got thru it — Almost, anyway — Robin is still saying in her sleep, "Wait, explain that again!"

A lot of people don't realize it, but being an editor is not much fun, as Frannie realized. She has to give orders, make sure they are carried out, assign jobs, and make certain they are accomplished. She also has to own a typewriter, a cropping pencil, and keep a number of 3R and 3C sheets stocked under her pillow.

But we had some laughs as a group. LB, FC, and Ms. F. will remember how silly things got about 7:00 PM on our first deadline. We'll all remember how hard Bonnie argued that she wasn't the most argumentative; and we can hear Wanda telling us how she wasn't used to a manual typewriter (and how we knew she'd be "used to it" if she didn't have to keep unsticking the "y"), and the rest of the group trying to finally catch on to what was happening.

Finally we want to say to everyone (and especially those people who considered us selfish and unrepresentative) that this yearbook is truly for you. We wanted to involve you in the school, and get you to enjoy part of your high school years.

We hope we have succeeded
But mostly we want to say-
YAH! We're done!!!

and so there ain't nothing more to write about what a trouble it was to make a book i wouldn't a tackled it and i ain't going to no more.

Mark Twain

Boy I was sure glad when the book was finally finished and off to the publisher. Let me tell you that there are and will be many good and bad memories from this little experience.

But I would really like to thank the kids who stuck by and helped get this book out. There were many times when we disagreed about things but in the long run everything worked out.

I tried my hardest and so did the others in "B" block Journalism to bring to you the kind of book that we though would bring back memories of your Senior yr. at N.S.R.V.

Apologies to those who were hurt or disagreed with us but we based our decisions on what we felt the majority of the class would like.

Many thanks go to Dot Daly, Roberta Sheppard, Lee Stevens, John Giering, Don Foster, and everyone who helped us.

A special thanks goes to Ms. Noreen Foster!

Thanks and Best Wishes Always Frannie
